

One day Jenny found a Rang-tan in her bedroom. She did not want him to stay. After she told Rang-Tan to leave she realised the Rang-Tan was unhappy and needed help so she agreed. Together Jenny and Rang-tan travelled around the world to get people to help.

The problem was most aeroplanes do not allow animals on so Jenny had to sneak him on inside her bag. It was very unfair. Then they had to tell everyone the story of Rang-tan and just about as they began to tell everyone the story Jenny got a really sore throat. It was very unfair. Then some people did not believe them. It was very unfair. Jenny felt like she should just give up.

People could be so unkind, it made her very miserable. Just then a man named Tim from a company called Green Peace contacted Jenny and said they would like to do an advert to help spread Rang-Tan's story.

Jenny and Rang-Tan rushed to the studio. They recorded the advert for Green peace and Tim said it was going to be a big success. Jenny and Rang-Tan could not believe their luck but they knew that things would get a little bit better from there. Thanks to Tim and Greenpeace.
